

WHITMAN AGAIN DEFIES SEABURY

Calls On Him, in Ogdensburg Speech, to Specify in Charges

[From a Staff Correspondent of The Tribune.]
Ogdensburg, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Before an audience of 1,800 here to-night Governor Whitman catalogued the errors he declared his opponent had made in the last ten days and repeated his challenge that his opponent be specific in his charges that the administration is corrupt, extravagant and incompetent.

The Governor said in the dozen speeches he made since leaving Syracuse this morning that while ten days had passed since he issued his challenge, he was still hopeful that his opponent would remember that the dictates of decency called for an answer. "So far," said the Governor, "I have called the attention of the people of this state to three of Judge Seabury's errors. No. 1 was his criticism of my administration, No. 2 was his criticism of my State Department to fight infantile paralysis, and No. 3 his attack on me for failing to equip the National guard, a duty that belongs to the national government."

"Now, here is error No. 4. We find it in his Brooklyn speech, when he said: 'I favor the repeal of the settlement law. I favor the amendment of the advance payment law, so as to make it impossible to settle a claim outside the jurisdiction of the industrial commission.'"

"That statement means that if Judge Seabury should be elected Governor he would repeal the direct settlement law and would order that every one of the 100,000 claims against the State should be placed upon a calendar of the industrial commission. This means a delay of weeks and months and would result in grave hardships for the injured and the dependents of those named or killed while engaged in hazardous occupations."

"The second sentence is a remarkable display of ignorance. My administration has placed upon the statute books of this state just such an amendment, and it is in force to-day."

"My opponent," went on the Governor, "made this statement while outlining his plan for an executive budget, which, apparently, he does not know exists. As a judge, he should know that it would be unconstitutional for the Legislature to pass such a law."

WILL NOT PROSECUTE STUDENTS OVER VOTES

Swann, However, Warns "Birds of Passage"

District Attorney Swann will not prosecute any of the students at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary who have attempted to register from the dormitories of the colleges, he said last night. About thirty charges were filed against these students by the Board of Elections.

"Unless students have a bona fide residence in New York County they should not attempt to vote. Those who live in the college dormitories are mere birds of passage than citizens," said Mr. Swann.

Assistant District Attorney Olcott, in charge of the election bureau, has asked for forty warrants in cases of alleged violations where investigation is to be made. Many of the 336 complaints show that persons who registered illegally did so through an honest mistake. One of these, according to Mr. Olcott, was William J. Martin, secretary to William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury in Washington.

WILSON AS MOVIE STAR SOMEHOW DIDN'T SUIT

Films Ordered by McCormick, Says Maker, and Sues

Politicians outside the Democratic camp are wondering what has occurred to change the Democratic National Committee's mind about a motion picture production featuring Woodrow Wilson which it is alleged to have ordered from the Huntington Film Company, of Huntington, Long Island.

Charles C. O'Hara, president of the film company, says the committee accepted the "sample film" and ordered twenty-five duplicates. Because it refused to accept them O'Hara yesterday named Vance C. McCormick and Wilbur W. Marsh, chairman and treasurer, as defendants in an action to recover the money he declares is due him. The case, when it was called in the 4th District Municipal Court, Brooklyn, was adjourned until November 6, the day scheduled for election.

"The committee does not owe O'Hara a single cent," Treasurer Marsh said last night. "No films were ordered from him, and we consider the incident of his suit no more important than the fly on the ox's nose."

THE WEATHER REPORT
Official Records and Forecast for Next Twenty-four Hours.

Washington, Oct. 24.—There are still some indications of a disturbance of unknown intensity off the Florida coast, and northeast storm clouds remain hazy from New Mexico to Jacksonville. The wind is from the north, with a light to moderate breeze. A short distance south of the island.

There has been a general and decided fall in temperature and the wind has shifted to the south. A southerly disturbance of rapidly increasing intensity is moving over the Gulf of Mexico and will reach the Florida coast on Wednesday night or Thursday morning. It will bring heavy rain and strong winds. The wind will be from the south, with a light to moderate breeze. A short distance south of the island.

Padded Payrolls, Waste and Ignorance of Finance Charged to Whitman

[From a Staff Correspondent of The Tribune.]
Syracuse, Oct. 24.—Paddling of state payrolls with political workers and the creation of 3,000 additional state jobs, an increase in state administrative expenses of $4,465,646 and violation of a pledge to restrict state expenditure are some of the charges made to-night by Judge Samuel Seabury against Governor Whitman.

The accusations, made in the form of an open letter answering Mr. Whitman's demand for a bill of particulars on the general charges of extravagance and incompetence, Judge Seabury read in the course of a speech at the largest Democratic meeting held in Onondaga County in years.

After repeating the charge of an error of $15,000,000 in estimating state expenses and of imposing an unnecessary direct tax of $29,000,000, Judge Seabury says:

"I charge that you signed an appropriation for canal construction out of current revenues of $3,554,000 which was not needed or used for that purpose."

"I charge that you permitted $660,000 to be wasted in newspaper advertising of the proposed constitution."

"I charge that you unnecessarily increased the appropriation for your own department by $39,050."

WILSON STARTS WEST TO-DAY FOR OHIO FIGHT

[From a Staff Correspondent of The Tribune.]
Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 24.—President Wilson will leave here to-morrow at noon for his last swing into the Middle West before the election. This trip will carry him into the fall's chief battleground, Ohio.

The President is scheduled to make more of his "non-partisan" speeches on Thursday in Cincinnati, and through them Democratic managers are frankly hopeful of putting Ohio safely into the Wilson column.

The mistake of previous journeys, of having the President's car attached to a regular train, is to be avoided. A special train will enable him to give as much time as he wishes to greeting crowds along the way. The journey for the most part lies through Democratic territory in Maryland, West Virginia and Southern Ohio, and big demonstrations are being carefully planned.

DEMOCRATS CHOOSE SUCCESSOR TO STIER

Funeral of Slain Queens Sheriff To Be Held To-morrow

Funeral services for Sheriff Paul Stier of Queens, who was mortally wounded leading an attack on the barricaded home of Frank Taff, at Whitehouse, L. I., will be held in Flushing to-morrow afternoon, by the Bethlehem Lodge, F. and A. M., it was announced yesterday.

The Democratic County Committee met last night to nominate a candidate for Sheriff. Samuel J. Mitchell, at present Under Sheriff, was the choice of the meeting. Supreme Court justices had advised there was still time to get in another name on the ticket, but it is believed the Election Board will refuse to accept the nomination. In that case an appeal will be made to the courts.

The Republicans were about agreed last night to give their backing to Charles McArdle, of Flushing, if it develops the vacancy is to be filled by the Governor.

All the policemen shot by Taff will recover.

TWO HATS ARE CLEWS IN MURDER ARRESTS

Three Are Held After Brooklyn Farmer Is Slain

Thieves raided the farm of James Arteria, of 2300 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, six months ago. Arteria found a hat dropped by one of the raiders in flight.

Last week Arteria, investigating strange sounds in his vegetable patch, was shot to death. Detectives found a hat precisely similar to the one turned over to them after the previous pillaging expedition.

Yesterday they arraigned Frank Romeo, his brother Joseph, and Angelo Leonardo, of 475 Maple Street, Brooklyn, in the Flatbush police court, charged with homicide. They had fitted one of the prisoners. They were held on short affidavits for examination to-morrow.

E. N. Clopper Buys New Home

[By Telegram to The Tribune.]
Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 24.—The old Astor homestead, on South Greenwich Avenue, owned by Mrs. H. O. Astor, has been sold to Edward N. Clopper, president of the Childs' Welfare League, New York. Mr. Clopper and his family will occupy the place next spring.

"I charge that you have demoralized every state department by the example you have set concerning vouchers of your trip to California."

"Finally, I charge that your ignorance of state finance is proved by your public statement that Governor Glynn should be impeached for his action in regard to the sinking funds, Nos. 2 and 3. If you knew what was going on in your own administration you would know that the practice pursued by Governor Glynn has been followed in every respect during two years which you have been Governor."

Earlier in the day Judge Seabury spoke in Oswego and Cortland. To-morrow night he speaks in Rochester.

KISS OF MOTHER SPURNED BY GIRL

Child Is Witness Against Parent in Father's Alienation Suit

Thatcher White, twelve years old, and his sister Marion, eleven, saw their mother yesterday in the Supreme Court in Jersey City for the first time since their father, James, instituted a $50,000 suit for alienation of his wife's affections against Alfred Blume, of Union Hill.

Mrs. White extended her arms to her daughter.

"Kiss me," she pleaded. Marion turned away, walking slowly to the bench where her father sat. Later, in the witness chair, she explained her conduct.

"I wouldn't kiss her," she said, "because I have heard things in this court that make me think my mother is not good."

White, who was a carpenter, formerly lived in Union Hill. He moved to Goshen, N. Y., with his children. His wife remained to act as nurse to Mrs. Blume, whose husband was a real estate operator. Mrs. Blume died.

Mrs. White accompanied Mr. Blume on a trip South. When they returned she acted as his housekeeper at Lake Hopatcong. Marion testified yesterday that one day after her mother had gone into Mr. Blume's room she heard the click of a lock.

A letter was introduced, in which Mr. Blume had written: "If she were only free! But what can I do?" In another he spoke of diamond earrings he intended to give her.

Blume testified that after his wife's death he hired Mrs. White as a nurse and housekeeper for $20 a month, and that there was nothing improper in their relations.

Judge Spies submitted the case to the jury late in the afternoon.

WAR VICTIM A HERO AT PICTURE SHOWING

"Wounded Arm Nothing," Keogh Asserts

Grenville Keogh, with his right arm hanging stiff at his side, was the hero of the afternoon when the pictures of the American Ambulance Field Service in France were shown yesterday at 1457 Broadway.

Keogh was wounded in June at Verdun and came back to this country last week. Much embarrassed, he sought the darkest corner of the projecting room when A. Platt Andrews, chief of the ambulance service, started the story of his exploits and his wounds.

"Oh, pshaw! It's nothing," he stammered, hiding the wounded arm. "Why, it doesn't bother me at all. I wouldn't know I ever had a bullet in me."

Of course, he is going back in January—they all do.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who gave the money for the American Ambulance Hospital in Paris, was expected to speak, but it was explained that she was under contract to a magazine to tell her story first in writing. The pictures were those that have been seen at private exhibitions in Newport and at the Allied Bazaar last June.

Stephen Lausanne, editor of "Le Matin" of Paris, and Mme. Lausanne were the guests of honor. Other present were Mrs. Seth Barton French, Lieutenant Peckhoff, of the Franco-American Flying Corps; Miss Elizabeth Jordan, Miss Elizabeth Marbury and Miss Anne Morgan.

SCHNEIDER FIGHTS TO RAISE SON'S PAY

Budget Committee Balks—Living Cost Affects Horses

"The high cost of living has also affected horses," said Borough President Marcus M. Marks, yesterday afternoon, before the sub-committee on budget of the Board of Estimate, which had questioned his request for an appropriation of $7 a day for each truck carrying asphalt. The boroughs of Queens and Richmond had asked for but $5. The $7 was allowed.

Yesterday's session of the sub-committee developed a clash between the committee and County Clerk William F. Schneider, when Schneider's request that the salary of his son, who is supervising clerk, be raised from $2,580 to $3,000 a year, was refused.
